Short Bio of Professor Jorge Heine

Jorge Heine holds the Chair in Global Governance at the Balsillie School of International Affairs, is Professor of Political Science at Wilfrid Laurier University and is a Distinguished Fellow at the Centre for International Governance Innovation (CIGI) in Waterloo, Ontario. From 2006 to 2009 he served as Vice-President of the International Political Science Association (IPSA), whose XXI World Congress of Political Science, the largest ever, with 2450 participants from 75 countries, was held in his native Santiago in July 2009. He was previously Ambassador of Chile to India, Bangladesh and Sri Lanka (2003-2007). During his tenure the first presidential visit from Chile to India took place, a bilateral trade agreement was signed and Chilean exports grew tenfold, to US$ 2.2 billion. He was previously a Consulting Professor at Stanford University (1999-2003) and an Adjunct Professor at the University of Heidelberg (2002-2003). He also served as the Minister of National Assets of Chile (1999). Prior to that he served as Ambassador of Chile to South Africa (1994-1999), cross-accredited to Mozambique, Namibia, Swaziland and Zimbabwe. He was the first Ambassador to present credentials to President Nelson Mandela and collaborated with him and with Archbishop Desmond Tutu in the establishment of South Africa’s Truth and Reconciliation Commission. In 1997 and 1998 he was included among the 100 most influential personalities in South Africa by Johannesburg’s leading newspaper, The Star. He was previously Deputy Minister of Defence, Chilean Air Force (1993-1994), as well as Associate Professor of International Relations, Institute of International Studies, University of Chile (1990-1994). He has taught at the War Academy of the Chilean Army as well as at Chile’s Diplomatic Academy, and has lectured repeatedly at India’s National Defence College in New Delhi and at the U.S. Foreign Service Institute in Washington D.C. Other positions include: Associate Director of the EU-funded Institute for European-Latin American Relations (IRELA) in Madrid (1989); Associate Professor of Political Science at the University of Puerto Rico, Mayagüez (1986-1991); Director of the Caribbean Institute and Study Centre for Latin America (CISCLA) at Inter American University of Puerto Rico (1982-1986); and Deputy Director, Latin American Program, Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars in Washington DC (1980-1982). Dr Heine has given lectures at universities throughout the Americas, Europe, Africa, Asia and Australasia, has been a Visiting Fellow at St. Antony’s College, Oxford (1984) and has held post-doctoral fellowships from the U.S. Social Science Research Council and the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation. A member of the Strategic Advisory Group for the United Nations Development Program (UNDP) for Latin America, he has been a consultant for the United Nations, the Ford Foundation and Oxford Analytica and as well as an election observer for the Organization of American States (OAS) in Haiti. An Honorary Research Fellow of the South African Institute of International Affairs (SAIIA), he has been a member of the Advisory Board of the Chilean Council on Foreign Relations and is currently on the Editorial Boards of Global Governance, World Affairs, the South African Journal of International Affairs and Estudios Internacionales. He is a past president of the Caribbean Studies Association (1990-1991) and of the Chilean Political Science Association (1991-1993, 2002-2003). He is the author, co-author or editor of ten books, including The Dark Side of Globalization (with Ramesh Thakur, UNUniversity Press, forthcoming, 2010); Which Way Latin America? Hemispheric Politics Meets Globalization (with Andrew F. Cooper, UN University Press, 2009); The Last Cacique: Leadership and Politics in a Puerto Rican City (Pittsburgh University Press, 1993; Choice Magazine Outstanding Academic Book 1994)); A Revolution Aborted: The Lessons of Grenada (Pittsburgh University Press, 1990, 1991; Spanish-language edition, 1991); and The Caribbean and World Politics: Cross Currents and Cleavages (with Leslie Manigat; Holmes&Meier, 1988). His opinion pieces have been published in The New York Times, The Washington Post, The International Herald Tribune and he is the author of some seventy book chapters in symposium volumes and articles in journals like The International Political Science Review, PS: Political Science and Politics, Foreign Affairs Latinoamérica, and The Wilson Quarterly. Jorge Heine was born in Santiago, Chile in 1948. After attending Santiago’s German School, he graduated from the University of Chile Law School in 1972 and did graduate studies in Political Science at York University in England, where he received a B.Phil. in Modern Political Analysis, and at Stanford University in California, where he received an M.A. and a PhD. He is married to economist Norma Acevedo, by whom he has two children: Amory, a tax lawyer and Gunther, a law student. Interests include jogging, cycling and listening to opera and classical music.
